G. M. PULLMAN DEAD.

The Palace Car Magnate Suddenly Stricken.

Found Dead in Bed This Morning at His Home in Chicago—Heart Disease the Cause.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—George M. Pullman died suddenly of heart disease at 5 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Pullman's death occurred in his magnificent brown stone home at the corner of Prairie avenue and Eighteen street, where he has resided for many years. He retired last evening at his usual hour which was some what early. He was apparently in his ordinary health and there was no indications of his demise, or indeed any premonition even of illness.

Mr. Pullman was at his office in the Pullman building up to 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon attending to business. Nothing unusual was noticed in his appearance. Mrs. Pullman was not at home when her husband passed away, she being absent in New York.

At the town of Pullman, where the great shops that bear the dead magnates name are situated, no word had been heard of his death till newspaper men began to inquire as to the feeling of the town's people on the subject. The event had been so sudden and at such an hour that the company officials in the town had heard nothing regarding the death of their chief till after the toilers in the huge car works and kindred establishments had begun the daily routine all unconscious of the tragic occurrences at the brown stone palace a few miles further north on the lake shore.

Immediately, however, preparations were made to close the big shops and for the proper observance of Mr. Pullman's obsequies.

While seemingly in good health, Mr. Pullman has been complaining during the last three or four days of the hot spell and feeling rather uncomfortable. After leaving his office at 5 o'clock he remained at his residence all evening. About 4:30 this morning he awoke and called his body servant to his bedside, and spoke of again feeling uncomfortable. Finally he asked that the family physician, Dr. Billings, be sent for. In the meantime, hearing through the servants of Mr. Pullman's indisposition, Rev. Dr. Chas. H. Eaton, of New York, an intimate friend of the Pullman family, and who was visiting at their home, went hurriedly into the sick man's bed chamber. Mr. Pullman rapidly grew worse and a second message was sent to Dr. Billings, but before the doctor could reach the house Mr. Pullman had died. Mrs. Pullman, who was in New York was immediately telegraphed for, and is now on her way to Chicago.

Mrs. Pullman is expected to arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning on the Pennsylvania limited. She has been spending the season at the Pullman summer residence at Elberon, N. J., but went to New York city a few days ago, preparatory to coming west for the winter. Mr. Pullman, while in apparently good health recently, formerly had some stomach trouble, which he had attributed largely to the condition of his eyes. His belief was that about all the bodily ills were due to the eyes. The latter part of last week he gave the visiting officials of the Pennsylvania road a dinner at the Chicago club and was in excellent spirits. He leaves two sons, Sanger and George M., jr., and two daughters, Mrs. Carolan, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Frank O. Louden, of Chicago.

LIFE OF GEORGE M. PULLMAN.

George Mortimore Pullman was born in Chautauqua county, New York, March 3, 1831. At fourteen he began life as a clerk in a country store, later associating himself with an older brother in the cabinet making business at Albion. He came to Chicago in 1859 and at first engaged in the business of raising buildings, elevating entire blocks a number of feet to bring them up to new street grades. While riding in an old fashioned sleeping car from Buffalo to Westfield, N. Y., it occurred to him that there was a field for building comfortable sleeping coaches. From 1859 to 1863 he made a series of experiments on the Chicago and Alton and Galena roads. From these experiments he worked out detailed plans. A workshop was rented, skilled mechanics employed and Mr. Pullman threw himself into the task with the ardor of a man who moves from settled convictions. Although without mechanical training himself, he personally directed the work of others in all the minor details of putting the ideas he had originated into material form. The first car, the "Pioneer," was completed early in 1865, and immediately took rank as the most perfect railway vehicle the world had ever seen. This was the beginning of the Pullman system, which has grown to the present enormous proportion. Mr. Pullman was identified with almost every public enterprise in Chicago. The industrial town of Pullman, within the city limits of Chicago, now contains over 11,000 inhabitants. Mr. Pullman was a brother of the Rev. Dr. J. M. Pullman, of New York, former editor of the Christian Leader.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF HIS DEATH.

The following statement of the circumstances surrounding Mr. Pullman's death was prepared for the Associated Press by Mr. John S. Runnells, chief counsel of the Pullman company: "Mr. Pullman died at 5 o'clock this morning of angina pectoris. The extreme heat of last week, together with perhaps more than his usual exertion in showing some friends about Pullman, had caused him a feeling of debility, about which he spoke to one or two friends, but which he did not regard as serious. He told one of them yesterday, who suggested that he was not looking quite as well as usual, that he had been unable to sleep satisfactorily the last two nights and particularly on Sunday night; that he had some little difficulty in breathing, but that he felt much better then and he felt that a day or two would put him all right.

He, indeed, was so well that he intended to leave for New York on Thursday evening. Death came to him very quickly. At about 5 o'clock in the morning some friends who were staying at the house heard a noise in his room as if he wished to call some one. They went to his room immediately and found him standing up and evidently in great pain. One of them went to the telephone to call his physician, Dr. Billings. At the same time he himself attempted to walk to the lounge, but before he reached it, required the assistance of his friend to get there. He then became unconscious. In the meantime Dr. Billings had arrived at the house and applied restoratives, but without avail, and Mr. Pullman quietly passed away without regaining consciousness.

PULLMAN'S RESIDENCE.

Mr. Pullman's residence, on Prairie avenue, where he died, is one of the most delightful in Chicago. It is surrounded by a garden of most beautiful flowers, in which graceful palms occupy an important place. At the southern end of the property stands the "massacre monument," on the site of the old tree which marked the destruction of so many citizens and soldiers after the evacuation of Fort Dearborn in August, 1812. The tree was removed some years ago to the court of the Chicago Historical society and the place where it had stood was marked by a bronze group illustrating the rescue of Mrs. Helm by Black Partridge, and some of the incidents of the tragic event. Mr. Pullman's fortune is variously estimated at from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000.

MR. ARMOUR'S TRIBUTE.

The death of Mr. Pullman attracted wide attention in the business circles. Mr. P. D. Armour said:

"The news of the death of George M. Pullman shocked me greatly, though his physicians knew that he was troubled with heart disease. The city will feel the loss of Mr. Pullman. He was a public spirited man and a fine business man. I do not think the company of which he was the head will suffer on account of his death. It is true that he took a deep interest in the management of what might be called the smaller affairs of the corporation, but he told me not long ago that he was well supplied with good lieutenants and that in the event of his death the business would be carried on without difficulty. I think he was aware that he had a trouble that might result seriously."

M. J. Carroll, editor of the Eight Hour Herald, said: "George M. Pullman was a remarkable man in many ways. No man ever went farther thinking how to do a good thing for the poor. Whether his results were as satisfactory as his friends claim I will leave for others to say. He was a public spirited man and was behind as many philanthropic movements as any man in town. After the strike at Pullman a few years ago I did all I could to get Mr. Pullman to arbitrate with the company's men. He refused. He did not seem to think he could consistently arbitrate the difficulties. I have heard it suggested, however, that it was the great sorrow of his life that the

STUCK JURY.

Can't Agree Upon a Verdict in Luetgert's Case.

Eight Want to Hang the Sausagemaker and Four Want to Give Him Liberty.

CRIMINAL COURT BUILDING, CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Weary and worn, the jury in the famous Luetgert case early this morning resumed its deliberation of the evidence which laid piled up before it on a table, in typewritten form. All discussion of the case ceased shortly after 2 o'clock this morning and the tired jurors slept.

Some of them stretched themselves out on the long table in the jury room, others laid down on the floor with their coats for pillows, and a few dozed in their chairs. For several hours the silence was unbroken in the room save for the heavy breathing and occasional snore that floated through the keyhole and over the open transom to greet the ears of Bailiffs Connor and Walcott, who sat outside. At 7 o'clock there was a stir within the room and Bailiff Walcott entered. Several of the jurors were engaged in refreshing themselves by an application of cold water to their swollen eyes and wan cheeks. The bailiff took the order for breakfast and half an hour later it was served. After the meal was disposed of murmurs were heard coming from the room, which indicated that a discussion was in progress. Soon this ceased and at 8:15 o'clock silence again reigned. Then a rumor ran about that the jury had agreed to disagree and that all further consideration of the case had been abandoned. This was followed by another report to the effect that a verdict of guilty had been voted and that the deadlock was on the punishment to be meted out to Luetgert. Still another report had it that the jury stood eight for conviction and four for acquittal.

While these reports were in active circulation around the big building the daily crowd was rapidly gathering in the vicinity of the Michigan street entrance.

Women called as early as 7 o'clock this morning and sought admission to Judge Tuthill's court room before the janitors had completed the work of putting the room in order.

All early callers were turned away and the sheriff instructed his deputies to restrain the crowd and prevent the crowding of the court room as on other days. Orders were issued to allow no one in the court room except newspaper men and those directly interested in the trial. This precaution was taken to prevent any outbreak or demonstration when the verdict was read—if one was returned during the day. At 8:45 o'clock the continued silence in the jury room was construed by those who are accustomed to the methods of juries as indicating that the jury had reached a verdict and was awaiting the arrival of Judge Tuthill who was due at 9:30.

Over in the jail Luetgert was early astir. By orders of Jailor Whitman the prisoner was permitted to leave his cell and exercise in the corridor alone save for the presence of the corridor guards, who stood and watched the movements of his massive frame as he went through his exercises and walked around the exercise court. The big sausagemaker soon lit a cigar, and continued his walk, seemingly in fairly good spirits. To an Associated Press reporter Luetgert said:

"I slept well last night and ate a hearty breakfast this morning. I could eat another in a little while. I believe I will be acquitted. Every hour the jury is out makes it better for me. But you can't tell what a jury will do, after all," concluded the prisoner after a pause.

States Attorney Deenen spent the night after the adjournment of court at a hotel in the neighborhood. He was much improved physically this morning by the rest he had secured.

"I am still confident that the jury will return a verdict of guilty and that the punishment will be the greatest known to the law," said the state's attorney soon after he reached his office. "There was a vast amount of evidence and many things for the jury to take into consideration, and an immediate verdict in such a case could not reasonably be expected."

Neither of Luetgert's council was to be seen around the criminal court building in the early morning hours.

At 10 o'clock Judge Tuthill sent word that he was within easy reach and would come to the court room immediately upon notification that his presence was desired.

Attorney Phalen was confident that the jury would disagree. "I predicted early this morning that a disagreement would be the result and I firmly believe now my prediction will be verified," was his comment. "The longer the jury is out the stronger my theory becomes. It shows the jury is unable to agree."

Ex-Judge Vincent was still confident of acquittal. He and Arnold Luetgert, the prisoner's son by his first wife, held a long private consultation in a corner of the court room. At its close Luetgert's chief counsel said: "I have not changed my mind as to the ultimate result. I believe the verdict will be not guilty. There is a reasonable doubt in this case and the jury under its oath must give the prisoner the full benefit of it. There is much to be considered after two months of trial and I presume the jurors are working hard on the evidence. We are all impatient for verdict and that is why we fail to recognize the fact that the jury has not, after all, been out an unreasonable length of time."

Shortly after 10 o'clock a bailiff came from the jury room and secured from the clerk an envelope and a blank form of verdict. It was supposed by way of explanation of this, that the jurors had destroyed one of the forms of a verdict read to them yesterday by Judge Tuthill and taken with them to the jury room. A rumor was in circulation that a verdict was signed, but that afterward one or two of the jurors changed their minds, so the document was torn to pieces.

WANTED SCHAACK HUNG.

The 500 prisoners in the county jail evinced much the same spirit of restlessness this morning that is noticeable mornings of the days when peculiar things occur in the jail. They were nervous and demonstrative. Crowds of morbidly curious people who assembled on Dearborn avenue as early as 9 o'clock and gaped up at the grated windows of the jail seemed to excite the inmates. Yells and hoots greeted the crowd and the jail corridors rang with shouts, among which was easily distinguishable the words, "Hang up Schaack." This outbreak referred to Inspector Schaack, who had charge of the police end of the prosecution of Luetgert.

Jailor Whitman finally sent word to the corridor guards to inform the prisoners that if the demonstration did not cease all prisoners would be punished by being kept in their cells the entire day, with no opportunity for the accustomed exercise. The threat did not have much effect, and it was some time before the prisoners were quieted.

JURYMEN STILL DIVIDED.

At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon State's Attorney Deneen informed the Associated Press that the latest and best information he had of the attitude of the jury was that eight stood for conviction and the infliction of the death penalty and that four were holding out for acquittal. Those voting for the death penalty on the six different ballots are: Boyd, Heickhold, Bibby, Mahoney, Hosmer, Shaw, Franzen and Fowler. The four men favoring acquittal are: Barber, Harley, Holabird and Behmiller. The jurors, in addition to a special dinner order, asked Judge Tuthill, through the bailiff, if he would not allow them a box of cigars. The judge studied a moment or two and then good naturedly ordered that the weeds be sent in along with the dinner. It is now almost certain that if the jury is unable to agree by 8 o'clock they will spend the second night of their imprisonment in the big court room instead of in the room set apart for them. Several of the jurors were so overcome with fatigue by noon today they could scarcely keep their eyes open during the morning. They complained of the cramped condition of the little jury room. It was intimated to the court that if they could be allowed more ample quarters and a little rest after dinner they would feel more like discussing their verdict. Again, when this information was conveyed to him, Judge Tuthill pondered. He decided to do everything in his power to accommodate the twelve men and ordered a dozen cots sent over to the criminal court building from the Revere house opposite. These cots will be brought in towards evening if no verdict is reached by that time, and will be placed in the big court room in which the trial has been going on for nearly nine weeks. It was also decided to permit the jurors to remove their clothing and get a few hours sleep and rest, after which it was believed they would all be in a better condition and frame of mind to reach a conclusion on the evidence.

State's Attorney Deenen said late this afternoon that a verdict might be reached by the jury this evening, but he did not expect a return until tomorrow.

BONNETS OFF IN CHURCH.

Kansas Women Show Reverence for the House of Worship.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 19.—At the recent session of the Congregational Association of Northeastern Kansas, held at Centralia, a lively discussion was had over the proposition for the women of the church to remove their hats and bonnets when entering a place of worship. While a direct vote was not taken on the question, it was understood that a majority of the women favored it. When the women returned to their homes many of them decided to bare their heads when they attended divine worship. Last Thursday night a dozen women of Congregational church appeared at prayer meeting without hats, having removed them at the entrance to the church. At Frankfort, Whiting, Centralia and other towns some of the women of the church adopted this rule and appeared in the congregation with their hats or bonnets on their laps, just like the men.

Iron Plant Changes Hands.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Oct. 19.—Rogers, Brown & Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio, have leased the entire plant, furnace and ore mines of the Valentine Iron company, and will prepare for a resumption of the works on November 1. The plant has been closed for nearly two months.

TAMMANY'S CLAIM.

Van Wyck Will Get 250,000 of the 475,000 Votes.

General Tracy's Friends Are Equally Sanguine Over His Prospects, While Low's Adherents Think He Is the Man.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—"Claim everything" has seemingly been adopted as the motto of many of the political master mechanics of New for the pending campaign. The most sweeping claim is that made by Messrs. Sheehan and Croker, representing the Tammany Hall organization, and which has the practical endorsement of the betting men about town, who all along have been offering odds on Judge Van Wyck. The claim made, however, that the Tammany ticket will receive 250,000 out of the 475,000 votes registered in Greater New York is scouted by other party leaders. Next to Tammany, the greatest display of confidence is at the republican headquarters, where there seems to be a genuine belief that General Tracy will win. Seth Low's managers profess to be confident and those of George are said to be satisfied. Whatever may be the actual belief of the leaders, there is no disposition to allow the battle to go by default. There are in progress nightly from 300 to 500 political meetings. This includes, of course, the minor gatherings in assembly districts and ward club rooms. It is claimed that for the remaining fortnight of the campaign the Tracy leaders have arranged for an average of 200 meetings per night, at each of which there will be a full complement of speakers. A reminder of the widespread interest shown in the campaign of last fall is the work of women—either organized into clubs or acting independently. Thus far General Tracy and Mr. George seem to have the call in the favor of the feminine portion of the population, and many of the McKinley and Bryan women's clubs of 1896 are again to the fore.

AFRAID TO OPEN IT.

Mysterious Box Received by District Attorney at Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 19.—United States District Attorney Murphy has received a mysterious box with which both he and the janitor of the United States court are afraid to open. He ordered it soaked in water for twenty-four hours and will probably open it today. It is presumed to contain explosives. District Attorney Murphy is overwhelmed with communications, petitions and resolutions from anarchists all over the country concerning the three men imprisoned here charged with violating federal laws be sending copies of "Fire Brand" through the mail. Some are threatening, some abusive and some inflammatory. Thus far the district attorney has received petitions from fourteen different organized bodies of anarchists.

DEATH OF J. L. WORDEN.

Man Who Encompassed the Destruction of the Merrimac.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Admiral John Lorimer Worden, hero of the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimac and one of the bravest sailor fighters ever produced by the United States navy, died yesterday in this city of pneumonia.

For fifty-two years he served his country as a sailor, and never knew what the sensation of fear meant. He died at the end of eighty years of active life, honored and loved by everyone who knew him. He twice received a vote of thanks from congress.

In 1861 Worden was the bearer of dispatches and was arrested near Montgomery, Ala. He served seven months in prison, and when, after an exchange of prisoners, he came north, he was put in command of Ericsson's Monitor and sent down to Hampton Roads. Prior to the opening of the war Worden had won his way from midshipman to lieutenant.

ROAD IN TROUBLE.

Receiver Appointed for Russell Harrison's Street Car Line.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 19.—The Terre Haute Electric Street Railway company went into the hands of a receiver yesterday as a result of a levy made by the city treasurer for delinquent taxes amounting to $5,000. The company also owes $10,000 for street improvements and has a heavy bonded indebtedness. The receiver's bond was placed at $50,000. Russell B. Harrison is president of the company. For several hours during the morning the cars did not run.

SPAIN AND PORTUGAL.

The Two Countries Negotiating an Alliance.

LONDON, Oct 19.—A dispatch from Madrid says that there is much discussion at the Spanish capital on the subject of the alliance between Spain and Portugal which is reported to be in process of negotiation. The Portuguese minister of marine, who is now in Madrid, has expressed the belief that such an alliance may be accomplished at any moment.

A BRIDGE JUMPER.

Drops 108 Feet and Alights in the Ohio River.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 19.—K. P. Speedy, the high bridge jumper, jumped from the Louisville and Jeffersonville bridge into the Ohio river this morning, a distance of 108 feet. He made the jump at the request of a number of friends. He was not injured in the least and when pulled into a boat that was waiting said that he would leap from the tallest tower on the bridge Saturday. He did not go under water more than three feet.

MORE VICTIMS

Answer to the Call of the Death Angel.

Yellow Fever Assumes a More Fatal Character, Due to the Damp, Cool Weather.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 19.—Half a dozen cases and two deaths was the 10 o'clock report to the board of health touching the local fever situation. The weather this morning was cool and damp and dangerous for the sick. The storms that have been promised for New Orleans have not reached here and there does not seem any immediate likelihood that the present spell of weather will be broken soon.

A number of instances have happened recently where patients have been taken to the hospitals in street cars and other vehicles. This is absolutely against the law and the board of health has issued an order prohibiting such violations of the city ordinances.

Currency is now being disinfected in the local banks. It is considered a medium for the transmission of germs. Judge Lea, assistant secretary of the cotton exchange, who, with several of his family has been ill with the fever, is again well and at his desk. Dr. Geddings, of the Marine hospital service, has gone to Franklin to look into alleged cases there. The new cases at Patterson are considered to have been developed from the fatal case reported in that town some days ago.

NEW ENGINE HOUSE.

The Matter Discussed by the Board of Public Works—Other Business.

A new engine house for Nebraska was a subject of discussion at the board of works meeting yesterday afternoon. W. E. Doud offered a lot as a site for the new building but no deal was closed as the exact location of the building is yet an uncertainty.

Mr. Woodward, chief engineer of the Wabash, presented his plans for the construction of a new overhead bridge at Gay street. The board had requested some change in the original plans and the engineer agreed to them. The bridge will be twenty feet wide in the wagon-way, with a five foot walk on each side for pedestrians. The bond of the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western railway for building its part of the bridge was approved.

A remonstrance against the proposed opening of Hayden street, from its present terminus at Francis street to Hanna street, was received and filed.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS.

Congregation Organized in This City With a Membership of Twenty-two Persons.

The Seventh Day Adventists of this city have organized themselves into a congregation to be known as the "Seventh Day Adventist Church of Fort Wayne," the work of forming the church having been accomplished by Elder White, of Indianapolis, and Elder Covert, of Kokomo, who have been in the city the past week. They start out with twenty-two members. Their place of meeting will be at 540 South Calhoun street every Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

RESIGNED.

King Alexander Finds Himself Without a Cabinet.

BELGRADE, Oct. 19.—The cabinet resigned. It is supposed the resignation of the ministers is connected with the return of ex-King Milan to the Servian capital. Milan arrived here today in company with his son, King Alexander. This is the first visit of ex-King Milan to the Servian capital since his abdication in 1889, and trouble was expected to result from it, as the premier was said to have declared that he would resign if the former king were permitted to return here.

RAIDED A TOWN.

Dervishes Swoop Down Upon a Defenseless Community.

BERBER, Oct. 19.—A patrol of Dervishes horsemen, on Saturday last raided a village seven miles from here, killing eleven men and capturing many women, children and cattle. A detachment of Anglo-Egyptian cavalry, sent in pursuit of the Dervishes, overtook them and routed them with heavy loss. The Dervishes abandoned their booty and fled in the direction of Atbara.

A DOG SUIT.

Trustee Wertz, of Milan Township, on Trial on a Peculiar Charge.

This afternoon in Justice France's court, Trustee Joseph Wertz, of Milan township, is on trial charged with maliciously killing a canine belonging to Julius Spreer The dog is claimed to have been registered for taxation. County Attorney Barrett appears for the defendant. An interpreter was necessary to take the testimony of the prosecuting witness.

The paternity case of Ryan vs. Kintz was dismissed from Justice France's court owing to the failure of the prosecuting witness to appear.

WAS PREPARED.

Susan Rhinesmith an Example of the True Christian.

Her Life Was Largely Given to Church Work—Sudden Death of Mrs. Lassus—Other Deaths.

When the sad news was sent out that Miss Susan Rhinesmith had passed away in California last Saturday afternoon, many heads were bowed in sorrow, many eyes shed tears, and many hearts felt the sensation of grief over the separation of this good woman from the scenes in which she had been such an active worker. Miss Rhinesmith was the true type of the unpolished Christian, for she did that which came from the heart, unmindful of all the habiliments that so many church people are wont to clothe their deeds in. Her watchwords were: "Do good unto others."

Susan Rhinesmith came to Fort Wayne with her mother from Warren, Trumbull county, Ohio, about thirty years ago, having only shortly previous to that time seen her father laid away to his last rest. It was at Warren that she was born, October 2, 1829, making her, therefore, a little more that sixty-eight years old at the time of her death. A few years after coming here her attention was called to the efforts of several persons to form a Christian church, and she at once became one of the most interested ones to advance the movement. The first meetings were held on Broadway in Nestel's block, where such enthusiasm was manifested that the undertaking took more promising shape and the Anderson hall was leased. The history of the church from this time is well known as one of progression, until today the West Jefferson street Church of Christ stands as a monument to the zeal and energy of that little band of workers in its former days. Miss Rhinesmith was not only a regular attendant of the church but was also to be found among the foremost workers of the missionary and aid society work, her labors in this direction not being confined alone within the sanctuary. She was treasurer of the Ladies' Aid society almost from the time of her connection with the church, and helped to organize the Missionary society that has proven to be such a worthy adjunct of the church. Miss Rhinesmith became afflicted with asthma some years ago, relief from which she sought in California, with temporary success; but in time the old trouble returned and she again went to the Pacific coast for a sojourn, returning in better health than she had enjoyed for years. She applied herself to the Lord's work with the same vigor that had characterized her life before, but the third failing of her health made another trip to California two months ago advisable. She went with her brother, George Rhinesmith, and located on a small orange grove at Sierra Madre, sixteen miles from Los Angeles. Here she died, steadfast in faith and prepared to meet her Maker.

Death has removed from earthly scenes the personality of an ennobled character. Her words of cheer and hope will be heard no more and her benefactions will cease. But death cannot obliterate the glorified fruits of her labors in the vineyard of the Lord.

Surviving her in the immediate family are the brothers, George and John Rhinesmith, the latter being a member of the firm of Rhinesmith & Simonson. The mother died about five years ago in this city.

The remains will arrive in Fort Wayne next Saturday and the obsequies will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day from the Rhinesmith residence, 231 West Wayne street. The services will be conducted by the Rev. L. L. Carpenter, of Wabash, who was once a pastor of the Christian church here, and who was a warm personal friend of the deceased.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. John Lassus, wife of the proprietor of the Lake Shore hotel, died suddenly yesterday afternoon of heart disease. Mrs. Lassus was stricken shortly after she had soothed her baby and laid it in the cradle. She sank into a chair with a groan. Her husband was called to her side and he induced her to make an attempt to reach the bed, assisting her as she went. She only took a few steps when she fell to the floor. Dr. Maurice Rosenthal was summoned and he stated that the woman could live only a brief time. Father Guendling was sent for and arrived just in time to administer the rites of the Catholic church. A WOMAN'S rights orator in London denied that public business led to neglect of home duties, and requested any man in the audience who had suffered from this cause to stand up. One man arose, and it was her husband. The worm had turned at last.

IT is observed that many of the newspapers in this country that were a year ago promising the people the solution of the silver question would be brought around all right by an international agreement are in a high state of glee that Great Britain is about ready to close all negotiations with the American commissioners.

MORE than ever is it made clear that the policy disgrace should be rooted out of this city. When an evil has fastened itself with such a desperate hold upon the community that it boldly and shamelessly may suborn perjury then must wake to power the outraged majesty of the law. Policy has made of itself something more serious than a gambling nuisance and evil.

THE politician defines government to be a [illegible] created expressly and maintained solely to keep him and his [illegible] in a soft job.

MRS. ISELLA WETHERILL of St. Louis, predicts a flood of female tramps a decade or so hence. In a recent newspaper article she says: "The machinery problem is serious. A laundry puts in two machines and deprives twenty five girls of work. Labor saving machinery is doing this all over the country. The women are mostly to blame for the men being put out of work. Nearly 300,000 men are now out of work because their places are filled by women, but if this keeps on and machinery continues to supplant the work of women, then we will have the female tramp in abundance."

WITHIN little more than a week Fort Wayne has suffered the loss by death of two of her pioneer business men in the persons of Capt. James B. White and Mr. John Orff. Like Captain White John Orff had been identified with the business interests of this city for more than half a century and had contributed a great part in building up the name of the community. His honest methods gave him a name that none ever dared or ever cared to assail and his character redounded to the credit of Fort Wayne. For fifty years he had been going and coming among our people and he will be greatly missed both as a genial, kindly man, a sympathetic neighbor and a worthy citizen.

ON the 4th of November will fall the anniversary of the death of Eugene Field, whose gentle life was spent for the delight of children and who himself never save in his years grew to be more than a child. True he had the wisdom of years and the responsibilities of manhood, but he remained to his death a kindly, playful boy. So much did he contribute to the delights of childhood that nothing could be more fitting than that the anniversary of the death of the "children's poet" be appropriately observed in the schools on that day. Let the children be taught to revere the memory of the man the complement of whose life was found in the happiness of the little folks.

COL. J. S. DODGE, commander of the Indiana G. A. R., is a wiser man than a whole lot of his fellow citizens. He has declined the appointment tendered him of United States consul at Nagasaki, Japan. He gives as his reasons that it would not pay him to accept it and that more that he does not care to embarrass the G. A. R. with the disarrangement his resignation would entail. It takes courage of the sort that made Colonel Dodge a good soldier to refuse a federal job.

THAT some of the witnesses who testified yesterday in the suits against the policy gamblers deliberately committed perjury admits of little doubt. When Prosecutor Doughman gets the present consignment of policy off his hands he should, and we believe he will, proceed against the men who foreswore themselves on the witness stand. These men should be taught that an oath taken in a court to tell the truth is a serious obligation and one that cannot be violated without incurring severe penalty.

George M. Pullman Dead.

George M. Pullman was one of the most remarkable men the new world civilization, so prolific of remarkable men, has produced. In no country save this, where industrialism has been the mainspring of progress, could a man like Pullman have risen as he did. He began life a poor mechanic and died a multimillionaire at the head of one of the greatest manufacturing and traffic corporations the world knows today. That mighty enginery for the public comfort known as the Pullman Palace Car company was wrought by the splendid genius of George M. Pullman. He foresaw in this country the development on a scale almost too vast for contemplation our modern railway systems and realized at the same time that in a territory of such great distances railway travel must be supplied with all practicable comforts. He evolved the sleeping and parlor car and later the dining car. He was the pioneer along those lines and he has conferred on mankind immense blessings that he was.

The town of Pullman was his creation, and it is in some respects the most striking community in the world. Had George M. Pullman died before the great railway strike of 1894 he would have left a name revered by his country. But undeniable hardships endured by hundreds of his employes in Pullman and his unyielding obstinacy in refusing to submit to arbitration brought down upon him the general wrath of the public. Yet he has borne a great part in the progress of our civilization. Let him be remembered for that.

Bob Taylor's Eloquence.

"Bob" Taylor is undoubtedly a great man. In addition to being governor of Tennessee, he can fiddle a jig in the liveliest fashion, tell a rousing story and make an eloquent speech. He has been several times elected governor and will be several times more if proper reward is made him for a speech he made at Knoxville the other day, from which these honeyed words are taken:

"I have seen states broader in territory and with larger piles of wealth, but none that can boast of braver men or fairer women than ours. I have seen greater cities, but none more hospitable than ours. Taken altogether, I do not think there is a state under the American sky that can compare with ours.

"Tennessee is the sixteenth daughter of Columbia. And when she was born a new star rose and blazed so brightly on the American flag that the other stars turned pale in the presence of her beauty, and the stripes reddened with a deeper crimson, and flouted the glad air with joy. She has grown up to be the loveliest princess of the south. She pillows her head on her own shadowy mountains; the stars pin back the blue curtains of the sky above her, and the angels peep through and smile at her delight, as she tucks her snowy drapery to her knees, and dabbles her dimpled feet in the bright waters of the Mississippi. No wonder all the outside world has fallen in love with Tennessee, for she is the sweetest little darling in the family. All the old bald-headed states in the union have made love to her this summer, and kings and princes have sent her tender messages.

"But all the wealth of the east and all the broad empires of the west could not buy the heart and hand of Tennessee. She is the bride of Tennesseeans, who would spill the last drop of their blood in defense of her honor and for the protection of her name."

That there are "other pebbles on the beach" is again proved by a letter received by THE SENTINEL stating that Frank Schallen, the shoemaker at 194 West Washington street, has growing in his window a cotton plant which was in bloom a month ago. The plant may be seen there now. THE SENTINEL stated a few days since that the cotton grown in this city by Mrs. Owens was, so far as this paper then knew, the first that had been cultivated in Fort Wayne.

NORTHERN INDIANA NOTES.

Huntington has organized a company to prospect for oil in that vicinity.

The Sunday Morning Tribune is a once-a-week paper just started at Huntington.

The dead body of an unknwn man was found in the vicinity of Syracuse Sunday.

Over 100 acres of the best farming land in the northeastern part of Wells county has been rendered worthless by fire.

In a pocket of Charles Ward, the young man who shot Laura Bopp, his sweetheart, and then killed himself, Friday night, were found photographs of himself and the girl, which had been cemented together by the two bullets which he fired into his left breast.

The Farmers' Insurance company for Fulton and Pulaski counties has held its third annual meeting. The secretary's report shows that this kind of insurance is growing in popularity. The company has not had a loss in the three years of its existence, and its entire expense was only $40.

The county commissioners of Howard county have granted franchises and rights-of-ways to two electric railway companies to operate in that county. The proposition is to connect by rail the towns of Kokomo, New London, Russiaville, Ridgeway, Poplar Grove, Young America and Burlington. A short time ago a franchise was granted for an electric road from Kokomo to Greentown and Sycamore, with the ultimate purpose of extending the line to Marion, to connect with the Clodfelter system, if the latter is ever completed.

POST MORTEM

Reveals That Martin Sternberger Died of Pneumonia.

The Fatal Attack Is Said to Have Been Superinduced by Injuries Received Three Weeks Ago

Sunday a post-mortem examination was held upon the body of Martin Sternberger at the family residence, 32 West Fifth street, to establish the cause of death. Dr. C. B. Stemen, the attending physician, had diagnosed the case as one of pneumonia. The family had doubts and thought that death was due to injuries sustained by the deceased at Koller & Braun's stone yard three weeks ago. The physicians who conducted the autopsy were Dr. M. F. Porter, Dr. W. W. Barnett, Dr. J. A. Stutz, Dr. C. B. Stemen and Dr. George C. Stemen. It was found that Sternberger died of pneumonia. It is understood that the family will go into litigation to recover damages on the grounds that the deceased was made susceptible to a lung attack by the injuries he received. It is argued that his crushed leg caused his blood to become impregnated and that he was too weak to withstand the attack of a bad cold which he suffered soon after being hurt.

POLICY TRIAL.

Editor Moynihan Subpoenaed as a Witness to Tell What Policy Is.

The policy cases before Mayor Scherer were continued from yesterday afternoon until today, at 2 o'clock. Immediately after court was called to order Prosecutor Doughman had a subpoenae issued for A. J. Moynihan. He said that none of the other witnesses seemed to know anything about policy and he wanted to see if Mr. Moynihan could enlighten the jurors. The other witnesses to be called are Edward Schele, William Kihm, Louis Uplegger and Charles Pion.

OLD ENOUGH NOW.

A Springfield Township Couple Given License to Get Married.

About two weeks ago Richard E. DeWitt and Ethel A. Cummins, of Springfield township, came to Fort Wayne to be married. When they sought to procure a license it was found that the pretty bride-elect was a few days under the age of sixteen, the statutory age of consent, and the license was not granted. The young lady has happily attained the required age and today, accompanied by her fiancee, she came to the city and the necessary document was procured.

A STRANGE CRYPTOGRAM.

It Puzzles Thousands of Visitors to Trinity Church Graveyard.

In Trinity churchyard, New York, there is a queer and quaint tomb that attracts unusual attention. The grave adjoins that of the prison ship martyrs, in the northeastern end of the cemetery, and the stone is visible from Broadway. The peculiarity about it is the epitaph and subscription above it. The epitaph reads thus:

> Here Lies Deposited the Body
> of
> JAMES LEESON,
> Who Departed this Life on the
> 28th of September, 1794.
> Aged 38 Years.

Immediately over the epitaph and forming a semicircle above it are 13 strange characters, which some assert represent a quotation from the Greek, while others maintain that they are Chinese, Hindoo and every other conceivable brand of dead and dying languages.

The characters are in the forms of squares, or sectional parts of squares, some being mere L's, while others lack the top or side of the figure. Some have periods or colons within and one is vacant.

As a matter of fact, the characters are simple ciphers, which James Leeson, their author and at one time a prominent member of New York's society and business circles, desired should be placed on his tombstone. He was of a somewhat eccentric turn of mind and a close student of puzzling hieroglyphics. What, then, more natural than that, as during his lifetime he had puzzled his brain over "pothooks and trammles," he should bequeath to posterity a cryptogram that would puzzle all who might gaze upon it in the days when he should be naught but dust? A little more than a century has passed since James Leeson was gathered to his fathers, and in that time thousands upon thousands have gathered at his grave and wondered.

The lover of the intricate and problematical may easily solve the problem by following this explanation closely:

In the first place, Mr. Leeson, in his desire to keep future generations guessing, drew three sets of parallel perpendicular lines and crossed them with horizontal lines something after the style of the children's game of "tit-tat-toe." He then placed the letters of the alphabet in the spaces —from "A" to "I" in the first six; from "K" to "S" in the second, the ancient "I" and "J" being identical, and from "T" to "Z" in the third group of spaces. Then, ignoring the letters entirely, but keeping in mind the spaces in which they belonged, he used a period in the spaces occupied by the first six letters, a colon in the spaces of the second six and left the spaces occupied by the letters from "T" to "Z" without any distinguishing symbol.

Then James figured out a proper sentiment for a cryptogram, and finally decided upon the one which adorns his tombstone. It reads:

> REMEMBER DEATH.

The "R's" and "M's" being taken from the second, or colon groups, the "E's," "B" and "H" from the first, or period groups, and the "T" from the third, or unsymbolized groups.—New York Commercial.

MEXICAN PRESIDENT'S SON.

Porfirio Diaz, Jr., Completes His Education in Europe.

Don Porfirio Diaz, Jr., son of the president of Mexico, recently passed through several American cities while on his way home from London and Paris, where he has been completing his education. He is 24 years old now, and goes back to Mexico to begin an active career. His father has a great fortune, and of course it would have been possible for him to have remained in the gay French capital indefinitely, cashing paternal checks and now and then cabling for hasty remittances, or he could have returned to take a leading position in the languid society of the Mexican capital.

But young Diaz evidently has higher ambitions. In London he took up the study of engineering and devoted himself to it with such application that now he is equipped to earn his own livelihood, and although this is not necessary he will follow his chosen profession with much serious intention. In the Mexican army he is enrolled as an engineer with the grade of captain, and in case he should be called upon to go to the front he would not be a mere figurehead, but could render his country service which would probably be of value.

PORFIRIO DIAZ, JR.

In civil life it is not improbable the president's son will take a hand in some of the important public enterprises which are being launched in Mexico with such frequency. That he is interested in the welfare of his country is shown by the fact that he was accompanied on his return by three Parisian capitalists, whom he will endeavor to persuade that Mexico offers the best field for investment of any country in the world.

Don Porfirio's trip through the United States would have been made in a more leisurely manner had he not wished to see as soon as possible his father, concerning whom he has been anxious ever since the recent attempt on the president's life.

The Seed and the Soil.

Professor Doellinger, one of the most erudite theologians of the Roman church, remarked in a lecture before the Munich Academy of Sciences, on the subject of "Founders of Religion," that religions did not drop ready made from heaven, nor could religious systems find a permanent resting place without a soil prepared to receive new ideas, on which they could germ and sprout. In fact, the ideas must have been in a state of germination, growing gradually to fruition, to spring into life at the touch of the founder's magic wand. It is the same with nations. They do not spring like Minerva out of Jupiter's head, full fledged. They are of slow growth, and when the proper leader and legislator steps upon the stage the material must be ready to be formed into homogeneous whole.—Minorah.

A Striking Monument.

Nowhere in the world can be found a more striking monument than that erected on the shores of Lake Issy-Kul in central Asia in honor of the Russian General Prjevalski, a famous explorer of that region. The tomb is hollowed out in the summit of a jutting cliff on the eastern margin of the lake, and the monument consists of an enormous, rough hewn block of gray granite, 25 feet high, over which is thrown a chart of central Asia.

"Are you in pain, my little man?" asked the kind old gentleman.

"No," answered the boy. "The pain's in me."—Indianapolis Journal.

The Fountain of Youth.

We all remember the story of Ponce de Leon seeking the fountain of eternal youth and we all sympathize with him in his search Youth means so much It means more than life—for sometimes life becomes a weariness But youth—with its abounding health and vigor elastic step, glowing cheeks, and sparkling eyes—we all covet genuine youth

The weakness or disease which ages people before their time, is not the result of accumulated years it is the effect of wrong living and unhealthy blood. When the blood is pure and fresh the body will be full of youth

Thousands of people who seemed to have lost their youth by disease and suffering have found it again through the use of Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the most perfectly natural and scientific rejuvenator of the physical forces ever known to medical science

It gives the blood making organs power to make new blood, full of the life giving red corpuscles which drive out disease, build up fresh tissue, solid muscular flesh and healthy nerve force It gives constitutional power, deep and full and strong, rounds out hollow cheeks and emaciated forms, gives plumpness, color and animation

It does not make flabby fat like cod liver oil On this account, it is a perfect tonic for corpulent people

It aids digestion and the natural action of the liver and by feeding the nerves with highly vitalized blood banishes nervousness, neuralgia and insomnia

Where a constipated condition exists, the "Discovery" should be used in conjunction with Dr Pierce's Pleasant Pellets which are the most perfect mild and natural laxative in the world There is nothing else just as good" There is nothing that will do the work so thoroughly, surely and comfortably

Engineers Headed Toward Chicago to Attend the Meeting.

More About the Reorganization of the Bass Works—A Grand Rapids Brakeman Loses Two Fingers.

The engineers of the country will hold a grand union meeting in Chicago this week, commencing Thursday morning and continuing until Saturday evening Quite a number of engineers from this city will be in attendance and tomorrow evening a large party of engineers from New York, Jersey City, Philadelphia, Hoboken and Pittsburg will pass through this city on Pennsylvania train No. 9, en route to Chicago for the same purpose. The delegation from this city will join the eastern delegation here and accompany them to the Windy City.

REORGANIZATION OF THE BASS WORKS

The citizens of Fort Wayne will rejoice in knowing that the reorganization of the Bass Foundry and Machine works, upon lines mentioned in THE SENTINEL two or three weeks ago, has been practically settled, only a few details and the signing of the papers remaining to be attended to The deal places the company out of debt and gives it unlimited capital to work upon Mr Bass arrived home from the east last evening and at once entered on the details of the reorganization, which he hopes to have completed in a few days. The great works will be improved by the addition of all the latest machinery for making engines, castings and forgings of all kinds, and if business will warrant such a move the operating force in the various departments will be very materially increased.

G. M. PULLMAN DEAD.

company was brought into the position it was on account of its workmen The town of Pullman was his great pride and of his honesty of purpose in establishing it I have no doubt I will let others comment on the results of the experiment

Mrs Pullman is being accompanied on her sad home coming by Sanger W Pullman, the younger son George M Pullman, jr is in the city, together with a daughter, Mrs Frank O Lowden A second daughter, Mrs Carolan is in San Francisco and was at once summoned to return to Chicago The news of Mr Pullman's death spread fast along Prairie avenue Old friends of the family who were summoned by telephone messages at first believed the announcement to be untrue Mr Pullman had been seen almost every day driving to and from his offices and in active attendance upon business affairs He had never before suffered serious attacks of heart trouble Many neighbors and friends called at the Prairie avenue home during the morning, half expecting to find the report pronounced a hoax The tearful faces of the servants, who answered the door at the call of the muffled bell, showed at the first glance how true the hurried announcement of death had been Funeral arrangements will be withheld until the members of the family at present in the city may confer with the absent ones

Mr Pullman's death affected the Chicago stock market quiet appreciably He was said to have been a heavy holder of both Diamond match and New York biscuit securities, two of the most active stocks listed on the local exchange When the announcement of Mr Pullman's death was posted on the bulletin board it caused a break in the latter stock of 3¼ points A break of six points in Pullman Palace Car stock was chronicled on Wall street, but a rally followed

The death of Mr Pullman besides leaving a vacancy in the Pullman car directorate, also causes a similar condition of affairs in the board of directors of the Chicago Telephone company. He was represented on the New York Biscuit and Diamond Match boards by his son in law, Frank Lowden It is believed in local stock exchange circles that Horace Porter will succeed Mr Pullman as president of the Pullman Palace Car company

MRS PULLMAN STARTS HOME

NEW YORK, Oct 19—Mrs Pullman, who had been stopping here for sometime past, started for Chicago immediately upon receipt of word of the death of her husband in that city today

Mr Pullman was in this city on Friday last, and while discussing with business associates plans for distributing part of the Pullman company's surplus, talked very freely of the future of the great system which bears his name He laid especial emphasis on the complete organization which existed, and as if with some thought of retiring from the management, alluded particularly to Vice President Wicke's ability to carry on the business in a perfectly satisfactory way. Mr Pullman seemed to believe that the internal workings of his company had finally been brought to such perfection that his own supervision was no longer necessary to ensure the continuance of its increasing prosperity

Those to whom Mr Pullman talked on this strain on Friday last recalled his words today and discussed their strange significance It is well known that during the last two years nearly all the important contracts of the Pullman company with the great railroads have been renewed under long terms and favorable conditions and it was chiefly the accomplishment of this task that prompted Mr. Pullman to believe that the zenith of his company had been reached The only matter which, in Mr Pullman's mind, remained unsettled was the the distribution of the twenty-five millions of surplus which, it is said, has accumulated during recent years Plans for the distribution of this surplus have been frequently discussed, the one most persistently urged being the doubling of the stock Mr Pullman was opposed to this, and authority was recently invested in him to arrange a plan to settle the matter It is believed here that only within the last few days Mr Pullman perfected the details of his plan for the distribution of the surplus

PROTECT AGAINST DISEASE.
I have practiced medicine here for forty-five years and the last ten years have studied how to prevent disease, and have learned that medicines that will cure a disease, will prevent it; what will prevent, will cure. This is a law in nature. It generally takes nine days to prevent, and from six to nine to cure. These five infectious and contagious diseases can generally be prevented, and cured, at least eighty per cent. of them: Diphtheria, Scarlet Fever, Whooping Cough, Measles and Small Pox.
Medicines can be sent by mail with plain printed directions and the expense for either prescription will be only One Dollar and three 2-cent postage stamps.

KEPT MUM.

N. H. Lea and Bertie Romary Married Last April.

Kept the Matter a Secret Until Today --Religious Differences Back of It.

Today announcement was made of the marriage of N. H. Lea, of the Pittsburg paint shop, to Miss Bertie May Romary. There is something out of the ordinary in the news by reason of the fact that the young couple were slyly married just six months ago in Michigan and kept their secret well. The reason for this action is said to be due to a difference of religious faith, he being a Protestant and the young lady a Catholic. The bride, a pretty and accomplished young lady, is the daughter of Armand Romary, a farmer residing north of the city. Mr. and Mrs. Lea will go to housekeeping in this city this week, this determination making it necessary to tell the news.

EAR TORN OFF.

Little Elsie Sauerwein Kicked by a Cow--Sheriff Melching's Child Scalded.

Little Elsie Sauerwein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sauerwein, of 38 McClellan street, while visiting at the farm home of Arthur Peters, on the Piqua road, yesterday, was kicked by a cow. The animal's hoof struck her on the side of the head and tore the ear almost completely off. Dr. Stutz sewed the severed organ on and it is thought that in time all traces of the wound will disappear and that the little one will not be marked for life.

CHILD SCALDED.

Little Loretta Melching, daughter of the sheriff, was scalded yesterday afternoon while playing in the laundry, where the servant girls were washing. She dipped her left arm into a tub of water, which proved to be so hot as to cause the injury. She suffers much pain.

GEN. W. A. OGDEN.

Death of the Great Sunday School Music Composer--Well Known Here.

Members in this city of the Thirtieth Indiana regiment will be grieved to learn of the death of their old comrade, General W. A. Ogden, which occurred at Toledo, Ohio, last Thursday. To thousands of people all over the country the death of this well known man will come as a personal sorrow, for his songs have been sung in Sunday schools throughout America. General Ogden was a musical composer whose talents laid in the direction of sacred and patriotic music. His "Gathering Home" song has been one of the most popular selections in Sunday schools for many years.

GOT THE HORSE.

Sheriff Melching on the Trail of the Man Who Bunco'ed Young Clark.

Sheriff Melching has got the horse stolen Sunday in this city from young Lewis Clark, of Whitley county, details of which were given in yesterday's SENTINEL. Sheriff Melching left last evening for Payne, Ohio, where he found the smooth stranger had traded Clark's outfit for another and gone on. The sheriff is hot on the fellow's trail and went last night at a late hour from Payne to Melrose.

The men at the sheriff's office here today appeared to be of the opinion that Sheriff Melching would land the thief before he returned.

G. M. PULLMAN DEAD.

The Palace Car Magnate Suddenly Stricken.

Found Dead in Bed This Morning at His Home in Chicago—Heart Disease the Cause.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—George M. Pullman died suddenly of heart disease at 5 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Pullman's death occurred in his magnificent brown stone home at the corner of Prairie avenue and Eighteenth street, where he has resided for many years. He retired last evening at his usual hour which was some what early. He was apparently in his ordinary health and there was no indications of his demise, or indeed any premonition even of illness.

Mr. Pullman was at his office in the Pullman building up to 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon attending to business. Nothing unusual was noticed in his appearance. Mrs. Pullman was not at home when her husband passed away, she being absent in New York.

At the town of Pullman, where the great shops that bear the dead magnate's name are situated, no word had been heard of his death till newspaper men began to inquire as to the feeling of the town's people on the subject. The event had been so sudden and at such an hour that the company officials in the town had heard nothing regarding the death of their chief till after the toilers in the huge car works and kindred establishments had begun the daily routine all unconscious of the tragic occurrence at the brown stone palace a few miles further north on the lake shore.

Immediately, however, preparations were made to close the big shops and for the proper observance of Mr. Pullman's obsequies.

While seemingly in good health, Mr. Pullman has been complaining during the last three or four days of the hot spell and feeling rather uncomfortable. After leaving his office at 5 o'clock he remained at his residence all evening. About 4:30 this morning he awoke and called his body servant to his bedside, and spoke of again feeling uncomfortable. Finally he asked that the family physician, Dr. Billings, be sent for. In the meantime, hearing through the servants of Mr. Pullman's indisposition, Rev. Dr. Chas. H. Eaton, of New York, an intimate friend of the Pullman family, and who was visiting at their home, went hurriedly into the sick man's bed chamber. Mr. Pullman rapidly grew worse and a second message was sent to Dr. Billings, but before the doctor could reach the house Mr. Pullman had died. Mrs. Pullman, who was in New York was immediately telegraphed for, and is now on her way to Chicago.

Mrs. Pullman is expected to arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning on the Pennsylvania limited. She has been spending the season at the Pullman summer residence at Elberon, N. J., but went to New York city a few days ago, preparatory to coming west for the winter. Mr. Pullman, while in apparently good health recently, formerly had some stomach trouble, which he had attributed largely to the condition of his eyes. His belief was that about all the bodily ills were due to the eyes. The latter part of last week he gave the visiting officials of the Pennsylvania road a dinner at the Chicago club and was in excellent spirits. He leaves two sons, Sanger and George M., jr., and two daughters, Mrs. Carolan, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, of Chicago.

LIFE OF GEORGE M. PULLMAN.

George Mortimore Pullman was born in Chautauqua county, New York, March 3, 1831. At fourteen he began life as a clerk in a country store, later associating himself with an older brother in the cabinet making business at Albion. He came to Chicago in 1859 and at first engaged in the business of raising buildings, elevating entire blocks a number of feet to bring them up to new street grades. While riding in an old fashioned sleeping car from Buffalo to Westfield, N. Y., it occurred to him that there was a field for building comfortable sleeping coaches. From 1859 to 1863 he made a series of experiments on the Chicago and Alton and Galena roads. From these experiments he worked out detailed plans. A workshop was rented, skilled mechanics employed and Mr. Pullman threw himself into the task with the ardor of a man who moves from settled convictions. Although without mechanical training himself, he personally directed the work of others in all the minor details of putting the ideas he had originated into material form. The first car, the "Pioneer," was completed early in 1865, and immediately took rank as the most perfect railway vehicle the world had ever seen. This was the beginning of the Pullman system, which has grown to the present enormous proportion. Mr. Pullman was identified with almost every public enterprise in Chicago. The industrial town of Pullman, within the city limits of Chicago, now contains over 11,000 inhabitants. Mr. Pullman was a brother of the Rev. Dr. J. M. Pullman, of New York, former editor of the Christian Leader.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF HIS DEATH.

The following statement of the circumstances surrounding Mr. Pullman's death was prepared for the Associated Press by Mr. John S. Runnells, chief counsel of the Pullman company: "Mr. Pullman died at 5 o'clock this morning of angina pectoris. The extreme heat of last week, together with perhaps more than his usual exertion in showing some friends about Pullman, had caused him a feeling of debility, about which he spoke to one or two friends, but which he did not regard as serious. He told one of them yesterday, who suggested that he was not looking quite as well as usual, that he had been unable to sleep satisfactorily the last two nights and particularly on Sunday night; that he had some little difficulty in breathing, but that he felt much better then and he felt that a day or two would put him all right.

He, indeed, was so well that he intended to leave for New York on Thursday evening. Death came to him very quickly. At about 5 o'clock in the morning some friends who were staying at the house heard a noise in his room as if he wished to call some one. They went to his room immediately and found him standing up and evidently in great pain. One of them went to the telephone to call his physician, Dr. Billings. At the same time he himself attempted to walk to the lounge, but before he reached it, required the assistance of his friend to get there. He then became unconscious. In the meantime Dr. Billings had arrived at the house and applied restoratives, but without avail, and Mr. Pullman quietly passed away without regaining consciousness.

PULLMAN'S RESIDENCE.

Mr. Pullman's residence, on Prairie avenue, where he died, is one of the most delightful in Chicago. It is surrounded by a garden of most beautiful flowers, in which graceful palms occupy an important place. At the southern end of the property stands the "massacre monument," on the site of the old tree which marked the destruction of so many citizens and soldiers after the evacuation of Fort Dearborn in August, 1812. The tree was removed some years ago to the court of the Chicago Historical society and the place where it had stood was marked by a bronze group illustrating the rescue of Mrs. Helm by Black Partridge, and some of the incidents of the tragic event. Mr. Pullman's fortune is variously estimated at from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000.

MR. ARMOUR'S TRIBUTE.

The death of Mr. Pullman attracted wide attention in the business circles. Mr. P. D. Armour said:

"The news of the death of George M. Pullman shocked me greatly, though his physicians knew that he was troubled with heart disease. The city will feel the loss of Mr. Pullman. He was a public spirited man and a fine business man. I do not think the company of which he was the head will suffer on account of his death. It is true that he took a deep interest in the management of what might be called the smaller affairs of the corporation, but he told me not long ago that he was well supplied with good lieutenants and that in the event of his death the business would be carried on without difficulty. I think he was aware that he had a trouble that might result seriously."

M. J. Carroll, editor of the Eight Hour Herald, said: "George M. Pullman was a remarkable man in many ways. No man ever went farther thinking how to do a good thing for the poor. Whether his results were as satisfactory as his friends claim I will leave for others to say. He was a public spirited man and was behind as many philanthropic movements as any man in town. After the strike at Pullman a few years ago I did all I could to get Mr. Pullman to arbitrate with the company's men. He refused. He did not seem to think he could consistently arbitrate the difficulties. I have heard it suggested, however, that it was the great sorrow of his life that the

STUCK JURY.

Can't Agree Upon a Verdict in Luetgert's Case.

Eight Want to Hang the Sausagemaker and Four Want to Give Him Liberty.

CRIMINAL COURT BUILDING, CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Weary and worn, the jury in the famous Luetgert case early this morning resumed its deliberation of the evidence which laid piled up before it on a table, in typewritten form. All discussion of the case ceased shortly after 2 o'clock this morning and the tired jurors slept.

Some of them stretched themselves out on the long table in the jury room, others laid down on the floor with their coats for pillows, and a few dozed in their chairs. For several hours the silence was unbroken in the room save for the heavy breathing and occasional snore that floated through the keyhole and over the open transom to greet the ears of Bailiffs Connor and Walcott, who sat outside. At 7 o'clock there was a stir within the room and Bailiff Walcott entered. Several of the jurors were engaged in refreshing themselves by an application of cold water to their swollen eyes and wan cheeks. The bailiff took the order for breakfast and half an hour later it was served. After the meal was disposed of murmurs were heard coming from the room, which indicated that a discussion was in progress. Soon this ceased and at 8:15 o'clock silence again reigned. Then a rumor ran about that the jury had agreed to disagree and that all further consideration of the case had been abandoned. This was followed by another report to the effect that a verdict of guilty had been voted and that the deadlock was on the punishment to be meted out to Luetgert. Still another report had it that the jury stood eight for conviction and four for acquittal.

While these reports were in active circulation around the big building the daily crowd was rapidly gathering in the vicinity of the Michigan street entrance.

Women called as early as 7 o'clock this morning and sought admission to Judge Tuthill's court room before the janitors had completed the work of putting the room in order.

All early callers were turned away and the sheriff instructed his deputies to restrain the crowd and prevent the crowding of the court room as on other days. Orders were issued to allow no one in the court room except newspaper men and those directly interested in the trial. This precaution was taken to prevent any outbreak or demonstration when the verdict was read—if one was returned during the day. At 8:45 o'clock the continued silence in the jury room was construed by those who are accustomed to the methods of juries as indicating that the jury had reached a verdict and was awaiting the arrival of Judge Tuthill who was due at 9:30.

Over in the jail Luetgert was early astir. By orders of Jailer Whitman the prisoner was permitted to leave his cell and exercise in the corridor alone save for the presence of the corridor guards, who stood and watched the movements of his massive frame as he went through his exercises and walked around the exercise court. The big sausagemaker soon lit a cigar, and continued his walk, seemingly in fairly good spirits. To an Associated Press reporter Luetgert said:

"I slept well last night and ate a hearty breakfast this morning. I could eat another in a little while. I believe I will be acquitted. Every hour the jury is out makes it better for me. But you can't tell what a jury will do, after all," concluded the prisoner after a pause.

State's Attorney Deneen spent the night after the adjournment of court at a hotel in the neighborhood. He was much improved physically this morning by the rest he had secured.

"I am still confident that the jury will return a verdict of guilty and that the punishment will be the greatest known to the law," said the state's attorney soon after he reached his office. "There was a vast amount of evidence and many things for the jury to take into consideration, and an immediate verdict in such a case could not reasonably be expected."

Neither of Luetgert's counsel was to be seen around the criminal court building in the early morning hours.

At 10 o'clock Judge Tuthill sent word that he was within easy reach and would come to the court room immediately upon notification that his presence was desired.

Attorney Phalen was confident that the jury would disagree. "I predicted early this morning that a disagreement would be the result and I firmly believe now my prediction will be verified," was his comment. "The longer the jury is out the stronger my theory becomes. It shows the jury is unable to agree."

Ex-Judge Vincent was still confident of acquittal. He and Arnold Luetgert, the prisoner's son by his first wife, held a long private consultation in a corner of the court room. At its close Luetgert's chief counsel said: "I have not changed my mind as to the ultimate result. I believe the verdict will be not guilty. There is a reasonable doubt in this case and the jury under its oath must give the prisoner the full benefit of it. There is much to be considered after two months of trial and I presume the jurors are working hard on the evidence. We are all impatient for verdict and [illegible] why we fail to recognize the fact that the jury has not, after all, been out an unreasonable length of time."

Shortly after 10 o'clock a bailiff came from the jury room and secured from the clerk an envelope and a blank form of verdict. It was supposed by way of explanation of this, that the jurors had destroyed one of the forms of a verdict read to them yesterday by Judge Tuthill and taken with them to the jury room. A rumor was in circulation that a verdict was signed, but that afterward one or two of the jurors changed their minds, so the document was torn to pieces.

WANTED SCHAACK HUNG.

The 500 prisoners in the county jail evinced much the same spirit of restlessness this morning that is noticeable mornings of the days when peculiar things occur in the jail. They were nervous and demonstrative. Crowds of morbidly curious people who assembled on Dearborn avenue as early as 9 o'clock and gaped up at the grated windows of the jail seemed to excite the inmates. Yells and hoots greeted the crowd and the jail corridors rang with shouts, among which was easily distinguishable the words, "Hang up Schaack." This outbreak referred to Inspector Schaack, who had charge of the police end of the prosecution of Luetgert.

Jailer Whitman finally sent word to the corridor guards to inform the prisoners that if the demonstration did not cease all prisoners would be punished by being kept in their cells the entire day, with no opportunity for the accustomed exercise. The threat did not have much effect, and it was some time before the prisoners were quieted.

JURYMEN STILL DIVIDED.

At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon State's Attorney Deneen informed the Associated Press that the latest and best information he had of the attitude of the jury was that eight stood for conviction and the infliction of the death penalty and that four were holding out for acquittal. Those voting for the death penalty on the six different ballots are: Boyd, Heckhold, Bibby, Mahoney, Hosmer, Shaw, Franzen and Fowler. The four men favoring acquittal are: Barber, Harley, Holabird and Behmiller. The jurors, in addition to a special dinner order, asked Judge Tuthill, through the bailiff, if he would not allow them a box of cigars. The judge studied a moment or two and then good naturedly ordered that the weeds be sent in along with the dinner. It is now almost certain that if the jury is unable to agree by 5 o'clock they will spend the second night of their imprisonment in the big court room instead of in the room set apart for them. Several of the jurors were so overcome with fatigue by noon today they could scarcely keep their eyes open during the morning. They complained of the cramped condition of the little jury room. It was intimated to the court that if they could be allowed more ample quarters and a little rest after dinner they would feel more like deciding their verdict. Again, when this information was conveyed to him Judge Tuthill pondered. He decided to do everything in his power to accommodate the twelve men and ordered a dozen cots sent over to the criminal court building from the Revere house opposite. These cots will be brought in towards evening if no verdict is reached by that time, and will be placed in the big court room in which the trial has been going on for nearly nine weeks. It was also decided to permit the jurors to remove their clothing and get a few hours sleep and rest, after which it was believed they would all be in a better condition and frame of mind to reach a conclusion on the evidence.

State's Attorney Deneen said late this afternoon that a verdict might be reached by the jury this evening, but he did not expect a return until tomorrow.

BONNETS OFF IN CHURCH.

Kansas Women Show Reverence for the House of Worship.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 19.—At the recent session of the Congregational Association of Northeastern Kansas, held at Centralia, a lively discussion was had over the proposition for the women of the church to remove their hats and bonnets when entering a place of worship. While a direct vote was not taken on the question, it was understood that a majority of the women favored it. When the women returned to their homes many of them decided to bare their heads when they attended divine worship. Last Thursday night a dozen women of Congregational church appeared at prayer meeting without hats, having removed them at the entrance to the church. At Frankfort, Whiting, Centralia and other towns some of the women of the church adopted this rule and appeared in the congregation with their hats or bonnets on their laps, just like the men.

Iron Plant Changes Hands.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Oct. 19.—Rogers, Brown & Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio, have leased the entire plant, furnace and ore mines of the Valentine Iron company, and will prepare for a resumption of the works on November 1. The plant has been closed for nearly two months.

TAMMANY'S CLAIM.

Van Wyck Will Get 250,000 of the 475,000 Votes.

General Tracy's Friends Are Equally Sanguine Over His Prospects, While Low's Adherents Think He Is the Man.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—"Claim everything" has seemingly been adopted as the motto of many of the political muster mechanics of New for the pending campaign. The most sweeping claim is that made by Messrs. Sheehan and Croker, representing the Tammany Hall organization, and which has the practical indorsement of the betting men about town, who all along have been offering odds on Judge Van Wyck. The claim made, however, that the Tammany ticket will receive 250,000 out of the 475,000 votes registered in Greater New York is scouted by other party leaders. Next to Tammany, the greatest display of confidence is at the republican headquarters, where there seems to be a genuine belief that General Tracy will win. Seth Low's managers profess to be confident and those of George are said to be satisfied. Whatever may be the actual belief of the leaders, there is no disposition to allow the battle to go by default. There are in progress nightly from 300 to 500 political meetings. This includes, of course, the minor gatherings in assembly districts and ward club rooms. It is claimed that for the remaining fortnight of the campaign the Tracy leaders have arranged for an average of 200 meetings per night at each of which there will be a full complement of speakers. A reminder of the widespread interest shown in the campaign of last fall is the work of women—either organized into clubs or acting independently. Thus far General Tracy and Mr. George seem to have the call in the favor of the feminine portion of the population, and many of the McKinley and Bryan women's clubs of 1896 are again to the fore.

AFRAID TO OPEN IT.

Mysterious Box Received by District Attorney at Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 19.—United States District Attorney Murphy has received a mysterious box with which both he and the janitor of the United States court are afraid to open. He ordered it soaked in water for twenty-four hours and will probably open it today. It is presumed to contain explosives. District Attorney Murphy is overwhelmed with communications, petitions and resolutions from anarchists all over the country concerning the three men imprisoned here charged with violating federal laws by sending copies of "Fire Brand" through the mail. Some are threatening, some abusive and some inflammatory. Thus far the district attorney has received petitions from fourteen different organized bodies of anarchists.

DEATH OF J. L. WORDEN.

Man Who Commanded the Destruction of the Merrimac.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Admiral John Lorimer Worden, hero of the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimac and one of the bravest sailor fighters ever produced by the United States navy, died yesterday in this city of pneumonia.

For fifty two years he served his country as a sailor, and never knew what the sensation of fear meant. He died at the end of eighty years of active life, honored and loved by everyone who knew him. He twice received a vote of thanks from congress.

In 1861 Worden was the bearer of dispatches and was arrested near Montgomery, Ala. He served seven months in prison, and when, after an exchange of prisoners, he came north, he was put in command of Ericsson's Monitor and sent down to Hampton Roads. Prior to the opening of the war Worden had won his way from midshipman to lieutenant.

ROAD IN TROUBLE.

Receiver Appointed for Russell Harrison's Street Car Line.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 19.—The Terre Haute Electric Street Railway company went into the hands of a receiver yesterday as a result of a levy made by the city treasurer for delinquent taxes amounting to $5,000. The company also owes $10,000 for street improvements and has a heavy bonded indebtedness. The receiver's bond was placed at $50,000. Russell B. Harrison is president of the company. For several hours during the morning the cars did not run.

SPAIN AND PORTUGAL.

The Two Countries Negotiating an Alliance.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—A dispatch from Madrid says that there is much discussion at the Spanish capital on the subject of the alliance between Spain and Portugal which is reported to be in process of negotiation. The Portuguese minister of marine, who is now in Madrid, has expressed the belief that such an alliance may be accomplished at any moment.

A BRIDGE JUMPER.

Drops 100 Feet and Alights in the Ohio River.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 19.—K. P. Speedy, the high bridge jumper, jumped from the Louisville and Jeffersonville bridge into the Ohio river this morning a distance of 100 feet. He made the jump at the request of a number of friends. He was not injured in the least and when pulled into a boat that was waiting said that he would leap from the tallest tower on the bridge Saturday. He did not go under water more than three feet.

MORE VICTIMS

Answer to the Call of the Death Angel.

Yellow Fever Assumes a More Fatal Character, Due to the Damp, Cool Weather.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 19.—Half a dozen cases and two deaths was the 10 o'clock report to the board of health touching the local fever situation. The weather this morning was cool and damp and dangerous for the sick. The storms that have been promised for New Orleans have not reached here and there does not seem any immediate likelihood that the present spell of weather will be broken soon.

A number of instances have happened recently where patients have been taken to the hospitals in street cars and other vehicles. This is absolutely against the law and the board of health has issued an order prohibiting such violations of the city ordinances.

Currency is now being disinfected in the local banks. It is considered a medium for the transmission of germs. Judge Lea, assistant secretary of the cotton exchange, who, with several of his family has been ill with the fever, is again well and at his desk. Dr. Geddings, of the Marine hospital service, has gone to Franklin to look into alleged cases there. The new cases at Patterson are considered to have been developed from the fatal case reported in that town some days ago.

NEW ENGINE HOUSE.

The Matter Discussed by the Board of Public Works—Other Business.

A new engine house for Nebraska was a subject of discussion at the board of works meeting yesterday afternoon. W. E. Dodd offered a lot as a site for the new building but no deal was closed as the exact location of the building is yet an uncertainty.

Mr. Woodward, chief engineer of the Wabash, presented his plans for the construction of a new overhead bridge at Gay street. The board had requested some change in the original plans and the engineer agreed to them. The bridge will be twenty feet wide in the wagon-way, with a five foot walk on each side for pedestrians. The bond of the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western railway for building its part of the bridge was approved.

A remonstrance against the proposed opening of Haydon street, from its present terminus at Francis street to Hanna street, was received and filed.

RESIGNED.

King Alexander Finds Himself Without a Cabinet.

BELGRADE, Oct. 19.—The cabinet resigned. It is supposed the resignation of the ministers is connected with the return of ex-King Milan to the Servian capital. Milan arrived here today in company with his son, King Alexander. This is the first visit of ex-King Milan to the Servian capital since his abdication in 1889, and trouble was expected to result from it, as the premier was said to have declared that he would resign if the former king were permitted to return here.

RAIDED A TOWN.

Dervishes Swoop Down Upon a Defenseless Community.

A detachment of Anglo-Egyptian cavalry, sent in pursuit of the Dervishes, overtook them and routed them with heavy loss. The Dervishes abandoned their booty and fled in the direction of Athara.

A DOG SUIT.

This afternoon in Justice France's court, Trustee Joseph Wertz, of Milan township, is on trial charged with maliciously killing a canine belonging to Julius Sperer. The dog is claimed to have been registered for taxation. County Attorney Barrett appears for the defendant. An interpreter was necessary to take the testimony of the prosecuting witness.

The paternity case of Ryan vs. Kintz was dismissed from Justice France's court owing to the failure of the prosecuting witness to appear.

WAS PREPARED.

Susan Rhinesmith an Example of the True Christian.

Her Life Was Largely Given to Church Work—Sudden Death of Mrs. Lassus—Other Deaths.

When the sad news was sent out that Miss Susan Rhinesmith had passed away in California last Saturday afternoon, many heads were bowed in sorrow, many eyes shed tears, and many hearts felt the sensation of grief over the separation of this good woman from the scenes in which she had been such an active worker. Miss Rhinesmith was the true type of the unpolished Christian, for she did that which came from the heart, unmindful of all the blandishments that so many church people are wont to clothe their deeds in. Her watchwords were: "Do good unto others."

Susan Rhinesmith came to Fort Wayne with her mother from Warren, Trumbull county, Ohio, about thirty years ago, having only shortly previous to that time seen her father laid away to his last rest. It was at Warren that she was born, October 2, 1829, making her therefore a little more that sixty-eight years old at the time of her death. A few years after coming here her attention was called to the efforts of several persons to form a Christian church, and she at once became one of the most interested ones to advance the movement. The first meetings were held on Broadway in Nestel's block, where such enthusiasm was manifested that the undertaking took more promising shape and the Anderson hall was leased. The history of the church from this time is well known as one of progression, until today the West Jefferson street Church of Christ stands as a monument to the zeal and energy of that little band of workers in its former days. Miss Rhinesmith was not only a regular attendant of the church but was also to be found among the foremost workers of the missionary and aid society work, her labors in this direction not being confined alone within the sanctuary. She was treasurer of the Ladies' Aid society almost from the time of her connection with the church, and helped to organize the Missionary society that has proven to be such a worthy adjunct of the church. Miss Rhinesmith became afflicted with asthma some years ago, relief from which she sought in California, with temporary success; but in time the old trouble returned and she again went to the Pacific coast for a sojourn, returning in better health than she had enjoyed for years. She applied herself to the Lord's work with the same vigor that had characterized her life before, but the third failing of her health made another trip to California two months ago advisable. She went with her brother, George Rhinesmith, and located on a small orange grove at Sierra Madre, sixteen miles from Los Angeles. Here she died, steadfast in faith and prepared to meet her Maker.

Death has removed from earthly scenes the personality of an ennobled character. Her words of cheer and hope will be heard no more and her benefactions will cease. But death cannot obliterate the glorified fruits of her labors in the vineyard of the Lord.

Surviving her in the immediate family are the brothers, George and John Rhinesmith, the latter being a member of the firm of Rhinesmith & Simonson. The mother died about five years ago in this city.

The remains will arrive in Fort Wayne next Saturday and the obsequies will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day from the Rhinesmith residence, 221 West Wayne street. The services will be conducted by the Rev. L. L. Carpenter, of Wabash, who was once a pastor of the Christian church here, and who was a warm personal friend of the deceased.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. John Lassus, wife of the proprietor of the Lake Shore hotel, died suddenly yesterday afternoon of heart disease. Mrs. Lassus was stricken shortly after she had soothed her baby and laid it in the cradle. She sank into a chair with a groan. Her husband was called to her side and he induced her to make an attempt to reach the bed, assisting her as she went. She only took a few steps when she fell to the floor. Dr. Maurice Rosenthal was summoned and he stated that the woman could live only a brief time. Father Guendling was sent for and arrived just in time to administer the rites of the Catholic church, Mrs. Lassus dying as he completed the function. The deceased was forty-three years old and was born in Ohio, coming to this city with her husband about ten years ago. She leaves six children, all of them under age and living at home. The deceased was a member of the Cathedral parish and of the Rosary society.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the residence and half an hour later from the Cathedral.

A woman's rights orator in London denied that public business led to neglect of home duties, and requested any man in the audience who had suffered from this cause to stand up. One man arose and it was her husband. The worm had turned at last.

It is observed that many of the newspapers in this country that were a year ago promising the people the solution of the silver question would be brought around all right by an international agreement are in a high state of glee that Great Britain is about ready to close all negotiations with the American commissioners.

More than ever is it made clear that the policy disgrace should be rooted out of this city. When an evil has fastened itself with such a hold that it is upon a community that it holds and shames the most open perjury then must wake to avenge the outraged majesty of the law. Policy has made of itself something more serious than a gambling nuisance and evil.

The policy and its disgraceful environment ... to keep him ... soft job.

Mr. Jerry Wakefield, of St. Louis, predicts a flood of female tramps a decade or so hence. In a recent newspaper article she says: "The machinery problem is one that has ... child labor ... number of persons in manufactories and some twenty-five girls ... Labor saving machinery is doing this all over the country. The women are mostly to blame for the men being put out of work. Nearly 70,000 men are now out of work because their places are filled by women, but if this keeps on and machinery continues to supplant the work of women, then we will have the female tramp in abundance."

Within little more than a week Fort Wayne has suffered the loss by death of two of her pioneer business men in the persons of Capt. James B. White and Mr. John Orff. Like Captain White John Orff had been identified with the business interests of this city for more than half a century and had contributed a great part in building up the name of the community. His honest methods gave him a name that none ever dared or ever cared to assail and his character redounded to the credit of Fort Wayne. For fifty years he had been going and coming among our people and he will be greatly missed both as a genial, kindly man, a sympathetic neighbor and a worthy citizen.

On the 4th of November will fall the anniversary of the death of Eugene Field, whose gentle life was spent for the delight of children and who himself never save in his years grew to be more than a child. True he had the wisdom of years and the responsibilities of manhood, but he remained to his death a kindly, playful boy. So much did he contribute to the delights of childhood that nothing could be more fitting than that the anniversary of the death of "the children's poet" be appropriately observed in the schools on that day. Let the children be taught to revere the memory of the man the complement of whose life was found in the happiness of the little folks.

Col. J. S. Dodge, commander of the Indiana G. A. R., is a wiser man than a whole lot of his fellow citizens. He has declined the appointment tendered him of United States consul at Nagasaki, Japan. He gives as his reasons that it would not pay him to accept it and that more ... number ... A. R. with the ... resignation would entail. It takes courage of the sort that made Colonel Dodge a good soldier to refuse a federal job.

That some of the witnesses who testified yesterday in the suits against the policy gamblers deliberately committed perjury is a thing of little doubt. When Prosecutor Doughman gets the present consignment of policy off his hands he should, and we believe he will, proceed against the men who foreswore themselves on the witness stand. These men should be taught that an oath taken in a court to tell the truth is a serious obligation and one that cannot be violated without incurring severe penalty.

George M. Pullman Dead.

George M. Pullman was one of the most remarkable men the new world civilization, so prolific of remarkable men, has produced. In no country save this, where industrialism has been the mainspring of progress, could a man like Pullman have risen as he did. He began life a poor mechanic and died a multi-millionaire at the head of one of the greatest manufacturing and traffic corporations the world knows today. That mighty engineer for the public comfort known as the Pullman Palace Car company was wrought by the splendid genius of George M. Pullman. He foresaw in this country the development on a scale almost too vast for contemplation our modern railway systems and realized at the same time that in a territory of such great distances railway travel must be supplied with all practicable comforts. He evolved the sleeping and parlor car and later the dining car. He was the pioneer along those lines and he has conferred on mankind immense blessings that he was.

The town of Pullman was his creation, and it is in some respects the most striking community in the world. Had George M. Pullman died before the great railway strike of 1894 he would have left a name revered by his country. But undeniable hardships endured by hundreds of his employes in Pullman and his unyielding obstinacy in refusing to submit to arbitration brought down upon him the general wrath of the public. Yet he has borne a great part in the progress of our civilization. Let him be remembered for that.

Bob Taylor's Eloquence.

"Bob" Taylor is undoubtedly a great man. In addition to being governor of Tennessee, he can fiddle a jig in the liveliest fashion, tell a rousing story and make an eloquent speech. He has been several times elected governor and will be several times more if proper reward is made him for a speech he made at Knoxville the other day, from which these honeyed words are taken:

"I have seen states broader in territory and with larger piles of wealth, but none that can boast of braver men or fairer women than ours. I have seen greater cities, but none more hospitable than ours. Taken altogether, I do not think there is a state under the American sky that can compare with ours.

"Tennessee is the sixteenth daughter of Columbia. And when she was born a new star rose and blazed so brightly on the American flag that the other stars turned pale in the presence of her beauty, and the stripes reddened with a deeper crimson, and floated the glad air with joy. She has grown up to be the loveliest princess of the south. She pillows her head on her own shadowy mountains; the stars pin back the blue curtains of the sky above her, and the angels peep through and smile at her delight, as she tucks her snowy drapery to her knees, and dabbles her dimpled feet in the bright waters of the Mississippi. No wonder all the outside world has fallen in love with Tennessee, for she is the sweetest little darling in the family. All the old bald-headed states in the union have made love to her this summer, and kings and princes have sent her tender messages.

"But all the wealth of the east and all the broad empires of the west could not buy the heart and hand of Tennessee. She is the bride of Tennesseeans, who would spill the last drop of their blood in defense of her honor and for the protection of her name."

That there are cotton pebbles on the beach is again proved by a letter received by The Sentinel stating that Frank Schafer, the shoemaker at 124 West Washington street, has growing in his window a cotton plant which was in bloom a month ago. The plant may be seen there now. The Sentinel stated a few days since that the cotton grown in this city by Mrs. Greene was so far as this paper then knew, the first that had been cultivated in Fort Wayne.

NORTHERN INDIANA NOTES.

Huntington has organized a company to prospect for oil in that vicinity.

The Sunday Morning Tribune is a once-a-week paper just started at Huntington.

The dead body of an unknown man was found in the vicinity of Syracuse Sunday.

Over 100 acres of the best farming land in the northeastern part of Wells county has been rendered worthless by fire.

In a pocket of Charles Ward, the young man who shot Laura Bopp, his sweetheart, and then killed himself, Friday night, were found photographs of himself and the girl, which had been cemented together by the two bullets which he fired into his left breast.

The Farmers' Insurance company for Fulton and Pulaski counties has held its third annual meeting. The secretary's report shows that this kind of insurance is growing in popularity. The company has not had a loss in the three years of its existence, and its entire expense was only $40.

The county commissioners of Howard county have granted franchises and rights-of-ways to two electric railway companies to operate in that county. The proposition is to connect by rail the towns of Kokomo, New London, Russiaville, Ridgeway, Poplar Grove, Young America and Burlington. A short time ago a franchise was granted for an electric road from Kokomo to Greentown and Sycamore, with the ultimate purpose of extending the line to Marion, to connect with the Cloidfelter system, if the latter is ever completed.

POST MORTEM

Reveals That Martin Sternberger Died of Pneumonia.

The Fatal Attack Is Said to Have Been Superinduced by Injuries Received Three Weeks Ago.

Sunday a post mortem examination was held upon the body of Martin Sternberger at the family residence, 37 West Fifth street, to establish the cause of death. Dr. C. B. Stemen, the attending physician, had diagnosed the case as one of pneumonia. The family had doubts and thought that death was due to injuries sustained by the deceased at Keller & Braun's stone yard three weeks ago. The physicians who conducted the autopsy were Dr. M. F. Porter, Dr. W. W. Barnett, Dr. J. A. Stults, Dr. C. B. Stemen and Dr. George C. Stemen. It was found that Sternberger died of pneumonia. It is understood that the family will go into litigation to recover damages on the grounds that the deceased was made susceptible to a lung attack by the injuries he received. It is argued that his crushed leg caused his blood to become impregnated and that he was too weak to withstand the attack of a bad cold which he suffered soon after being hurt.

POLICY TRIAL.

Editor Moynihan Subpoenaed as a Witness to Tell What Policy Is.

The policy cases before Mayor Scherer were continued from yesterday afternoon until today, at 2 o'clock. Immediately after court was called to order Prosecutor Doughman had a subpoena issued for A. J. Moynihan. He said that none of the other witnesses seemed to know anything about policy and he wanted to see if Mr. Moynihan could enlighten the jurors. The other witnesses to be called are Edward Seiede, William Kihm, Louis Uplegger and Charles Pein.

OLD ENOUGH NOW.

A Springfield Township Couple Given License to Get Married.

About two weeks ago Richard E. DeWitt and Ethel A. Cummins, of Springfield township, came to Fort Wayne to be married. When they sought to procure a license it was found that the pretty bride-elect was a few days under the age of sixteen, the statutory age of consent, and the license was not granted. The young lady has happily attained the required age and today, accompanied by her fiance, she came to the city and the necessary document was procured.

A STRANGE CRYPTOGRAM.

It Puzzles Thousands of Visitors to Trinity Church Graveyard.

In Trinity churchyard, New York, there is a queer and quaint tomb that attracts unusual attention. The grave adjoins that of the prison ship martyrs, in the northeastern end of the cemetery, and the stone is visible from Broadway. The peculiarity about it is the epitaph and subscription above it. The epitaph reads thus:

> Here Lies Deposited the Body
> of
> JAMES LEESON,
> Who Departed this Life on the
> 28th of September, 1794,
> Aged 38 Years.

Immediately over the epitaph and forming a semicircle above it are 13 strange characters, which some assert represent a quotation from the Greek, while others maintain that they are Chinese, Hindoo and every other conceivable brand of dead and dying languages.

The characters are in the forms of squares, or sectional parts of squares, some being mere L's, while others lack the top or side of the figure. Some have periods or colons within and one is vacant.

As a matter of fact, the characters are simple ciphers, which James Leeson, their author and at one time a prominent member of New York's society and business circles, desired should be placed on his tombstone. He was of a somewhat eccentric turn of mind and a close student of puzzling hieroglyphics. What, then, more natural than that, as during his lifetime he had puzzled his brain over "pothooks and trammels," he should bequeath to posterity a cryptogram that would puzzle all who might gaze upon it in the days when he should be naught but dust?

A little more than a century has passed since James Leeson was gathered to his fathers, and in that time thousands upon thousands have gathered at his grave and wondered.

The lover of the intricate and problematical may easily solve the problem by following this explanation closely:

In the first place, Mr. Leeson, in his desire to keep future generations guessing, drew three sets of parallel perpendicular lines and crossed them with horizontal lines something after the style of the children's game of "tit tat toe." He then placed the letters of the alphabet in the spaces—from "A" to "I" in the first six, from "K" to "S" in the second, the ancient "I" and "J" being identical, and from "T" to "Z" in the third group of spaces. Then, ignoring the letters entirely, but keeping in mind the spaces in which they belonged, he used a period in the spaces occupied by the first six letters, a colon in the spaces of the second six and left the spaces occupied by the letters from "T" to "Z" without any distinguishing symbol.

Then James figured out a proper sentiment for a cryptogram, and finally decided upon the one which adorns his tombstone. It reads:

REMEMBER DEATH.

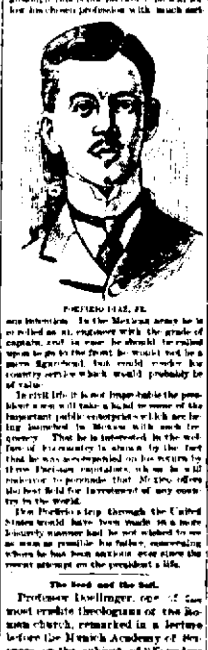

The "R's" and "M's" being taken from the second, or colon groups, the "E's," "B" and "D" from the first, or period groups, and the "T" from the third, or unsymbolized groups.—New York Commercial.

MEXICAN PRESIDENT'S SON.

Porfirio Diaz, Jr., Completes His Education In Europe.

Don Porfirio Diaz, Jr., son of the president of Mexico, recently passed through several American cities while on his way home from London and Paris, where he has been completing his education. He is 24 years old now, and goes back to Mexico to begin an active career. His father has a good fortune and of course it would have been possible for him to have remained in the gay French capital indefinitely, cashing paternal checks and now and then calling for hasty remittances, or he could have returned to take a leading position in the languid society of the Mexican capital.

But young Diaz evidently has higher ambitions. In London he took up the study of engineering and devoted himself to it with such application that now he is equipped to earn his own livelihood, and although this is not necessary he will follow his chosen profession with much enthusiasm.

PORFIRIO DIAZ, JR.

In the Mexican army he is enrolled as an engineer with the grade of captain, and in case he should be called upon to go to the front he would not be a mere figurehead, but could render his country service which would probably be of value.

In civil life it is not improbable the president's son will take a hand in some of the important public enterprises which are being launched in Mexico with such frequency. That he is interested in the welfare of his country is shown by the fact that he was accompanied on his return by three Parisian capitalists, whom he will endeavor to persuade that Mexico offers the best field for investment of any country in the world.

Don Porfirio's trip through the United States would have been made in a more leisurely manner had he not wished to see as soon as possible his father, concerning whom he has been anxious ever since the recent attempt on the president's life.

The Seed and the Soil.

Professor Doellinger, one of the most erudite theologians of the Roman church, remarked in a lecture before the Munich Academy of Sciences, on the subject of "Founders of Religion," that religions did not drop ready made from heaven, nor could religious systems find a permanent resting place without a soil prepared to receive new ideas, on which they could germ and sprout. In fact, the ideas must have been in a state of germination, growing gradually to fruition, to spring into life at the touch of the founder's magic wand. It is the same with nations. They do not spring like Minerva out of Jupiter's head, full fledged. They are of slow growth, and when the proper leader and legislator steps upon the stage the material must be ready to be formed into homogeneous whole.—Minerah.

A Striking Monument.

Nowhere in the world can be found a more striking monument than that erected on the shores of Lake Issy-Kul in central Asia in honor of the Russian General Prjevalski, a famous explorer of that region. The tomb is hollowed out in the summit of a jutting cliff on the eastern margin of the lake, and the monument consists of an enormous, rough hewn block of gray granite, 25 feet high, over which is thrown a chart of central Asia.

Engineers Headed Toward Chicago to Attend the Meeting.

More About the Reorganization of the Bass Works—A Grand Rapids Trainman Loses Two Fingers.

The engineers of the country will hold a grand union meeting in Chicago this week, commencing Thursday morning and continuing until Saturday evening. Quite a number of engineers from this city will be in attendance and tomorrow evening a large party of engineers from New York, Jersey City, Philadelphia, Hoboken and Pittsburg will pass through this city on Pennsylvania train No. 9, en route to Chicago for the same purpose. The delegation from this city will join the eastern delegation here and accompany them to the Windy City.

REORGANIZATION OF THE BASS WORKS.

The citizens of Fort Wayne will rejoice in knowing that the reorganization of the Bass Foundry and Machine works, upon lines mentioned in THE SENTINEL two or three weeks ago, has been practically settled, only a few details and the signing of the papers remaining to be attended to. The deal places the company out of debt and gives it unlimited capital to work upon. Mr. Bass arrived home from the east last evening and at once entered on the details of the reorganization, which he hopes to have completed in a few days. The great works will be improved by the addition of all the latest machinery for making engines, castings and forgings of all kinds, and if business will warrant such a move the operating force in the various departments will be very materially increased.

G. M. PULLMAN DEAD.

company was brought into the position it was on account of its workmen. The town of Pullman was his great pride and of his honesty of purpose in establishing it I have no doubt. I will let others comment on the results of the experiment."

Mrs. Pullman is being accompanied on her sad home coming by Sanger W. Pullman, the younger son. George M. Pullman, jr., is in the city, together with a daughter, Mrs. Frank O. Lowden. A second daughter, Mrs. Carolan, is in San Francisco and was at once summoned to return to Chicago. The news of Mr. Pullman's death spread fast along Prairie avenue. Old friends of the family who were summoned by telephone messages at first believed the announcement to be untrue. Mr. Pullman had been seen almost every day driving to and from his offices and in active attendance upon business affairs. He had never before suffered serious attacks of heart trouble. Many neighbors and friends called at the Prairie avenue home during the morning, half expecting to find the report pronounced a hoax. The tearful faces of the servants, who answered the door at the call of the muffled bell, showed at the first glance how true the hurried announcement of death had been. Funeral arrangements will be withheld until the members of the family at present in the city may confer with the absent ones.

Mr. Pullman's death affected the Chicago stock market quite appreciably. He was said to have been a heavy holder of both Diamond match and New York biscuit securities, two of the most active stocks listed on the local exchange. When the announcement of Mr. Pullman's death was posted on the bulletin board it caused a break in the latter stock of 3½ points. A break of six points in Pullman Palace Car stock was chronicled on Wall street, but a rally followed.

The death of Mr. Pullman, besides leaving a vacancy in the Pullman car directorate, also causes a similar condition of affairs in the board of directors of the Chicago Telephone company. He was represented on the New York Biscuit and Diamond Match boards by his son-in-law, Frank Lowden. It is believed in local stock exchange circles that Horace Porter will succeed Mr. Pullman as president of the Pullman Palace Car company.

MRS. PULLMAN STARTS HOME.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Mrs. Pullman, who had been stopping here for sometime past, started for Chicago immediately upon receipt of word of the death of her husband in that city today.

Mr. Pullman was in this city on Friday last, and while discussing with business associates plans for distributing part of the Pullman company's surplus, talked very freely of the future of the great system which bears his name. He laid especial emphasis on the complete organization which existed, and as if with some thought of retiring from the management, alluded particularly to Vice President Wicke's ability to carry on the business in a perfectly satisfactory way. Mr. Pullman seemed to believe that the internal workings of his company had finally been brought to such perfection that his own supervision was no longer necessary to ensure the continuance of its increasing prosperity.

Those to whom Mr. Pullman talked on this strain on Friday last recalled his words today and discussed their strange significance. It is well known that during the last two years nearly all the important contracts of the Pullman company with the great railroads have been renewed under long terms and favorable conditions and it was chiefly the accomplishment of this task that prompted Mr. Pullman to believe that the zenith of his company had been reached. The only matter which, in Mr. Pullman's mind, remained unsettled was the distribution of the twenty five millions of surplus which, it is said, has accumulated during recent years. Plans for the distribution of this surplus have been frequently discussed, the one most persistently urged being the doubling of the stock. Mr. Pullman was opposed to this, and authority was recently invested in him to arrange a plan to settle the matter. It is believed here that only within the last few days Mr. Pullman perfected the details of his plan for the distribution of the surplus.

Special Message to Men.

When the devastating fact of impaired vigor comes home to men the force of the blow is crushing. They know themselves inferior to their fellows, and they shrink from companionship. Their ambition is gone, and hope with it. When hope vanishes despair takes its place. All this without warrant, for these men can be cured. Dr. Greene, the famous specialist in men's diseases, has found the remedies that restore vitality in men. These remedies build up and strengthen, and thousands of men walk the earth today who have been permanently restored to vigorous manhood by their use. Weakness vanishes, hope and ambition return, and the patient is truly a new man. Dr. Greene's glorious discoveries are the safeguard of many thousand homes today. His wonderful Nervura alone has made him famous. Consultation and advice, personally and by letter, is absolutely free at the office of Dr. Greene's remedies, 148 State St., Chicago, Ill. Write about your case and there will be absolutely no charge for consultation or advice in either case, whether you call or write. The system of treatment by mail is perfect, and is absolutely confidential.

N. H. Lee and Bertie Romary Married Last April.

Kept the Matter a Secret Until Today—Religious Difference Back of It.

Today announcement was made of the marriage of N. H. Lee, of the Pittsburg paint shop, to Miss Bertie May Romary. There is something out of the ordinary in the news by reason of the fact that the young couple were slyly married just six months ago in Michigan and kept their secret well. The reason for this action is said to be due to a difference of religious faith, he being a Protestant and the young lady a Catholic. The bride, a pretty and accomplished young lady, is the daughter of Armand Romary, a farmer residing north of the city. Mr. and Mrs. Lee will go to housekeeping in this city this week, this determination making it necessary to tell the news.
